LEARNING LESSONS THROUGH EXPLORATION:

This publication is dedicated to learning about the experience of life through the exploration of reality and our environment. My journey started within the bustling streets of San Francisco, an urban Mecca where the realms of fantasy and reality merge.

Our life is a sequence of positive and negative events, which unfolds with the passing of time. With each outcome emerges new wisdom and experiences, and these new forms of information are subconsciously embedded within our mind forever. With each journey we take we learn more about the reality that surrounds us and how to control it. The journey of life is a perpetual cycle of discovery in which we never stop learning. A day's potential is infinite, as we live in a world where information is endless, new adventures are just around the corner and anything really is possible.

Every choice we make, word we say and action we take, will, in the end, decide your reality. Choose wisely and make your fantasy your reality.
