ABOUT SRAVYA

Hi there! A storyteller at heart, I'm here to capture your story in a way that feels honest and joyful. My work is a tapestry of moments - fleeting glances, belly laughter, gentle embraces - woven together to tell the story of your connection at its core.

With a blend of documentary and editorial styles, I capture the authentic as it unfolds, while providing gentle posing guidance to help you feel completely at ease. The result is a collection of memories that are both intimate and radiant: a true reflection of your love in its finest light.

Your photographer is the person you'll spend the most time with on your wedding day, so it's important to have someone who brings both calm and confidence to the day. I've been told I have a natural ability to create a peaceful, stress-free atmosphere while capturing each meaningful detail with precision and artistry, ensuring your day feels as effortless as it is unforgettable.

Before becoming a photographer, I left behind a career as an engineer. I bring a high level of professionalism and responsiveness to my work, and effective communication with you and your guests during your event.

Dedicated to inclusivity, I welcome all love stories with open arms. My commitment to showcasing the beauty of love in every form - interracial, LGBTQ+, disabled, interfaith - is evident in my work.

At the Heart of It

My vision and work can be distilled into 4 key elements:

1. your wedding

Your vendor & planning choices that make your day uniquely yours: the location you've chosen, the attire that reflects your style, the food and music. The ambient details that set the tone.

cocktail hour in the VT mountains

private vows for a garden fairytale wedding

first look in Portland,
known for its street art

the dress that the bride handmade earrings from the bride's father on her 14th birthday, reworn on her wedding day

2. connection

between you and your partner, between you and your loved ones

a shared toast to your new life ahead

a first look with your bridal party

walking down the aisle with your mom / dad

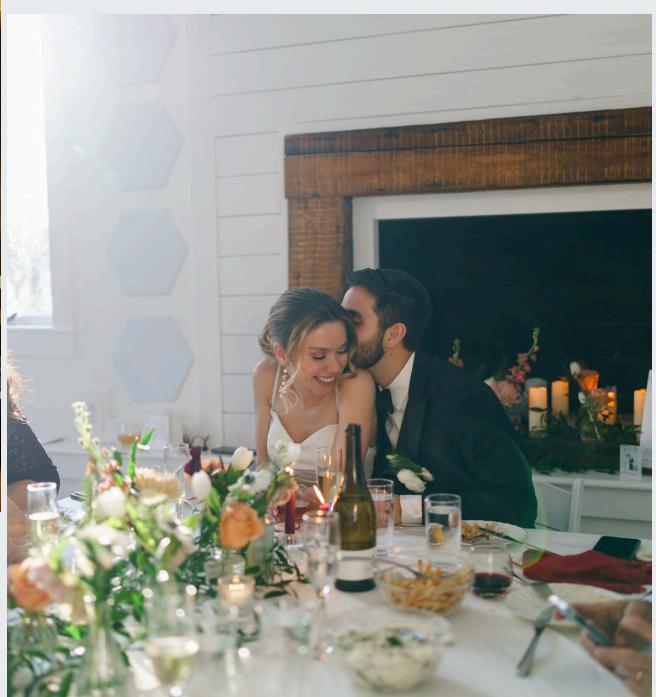

father-daughter dance, with Mom filming it in the back

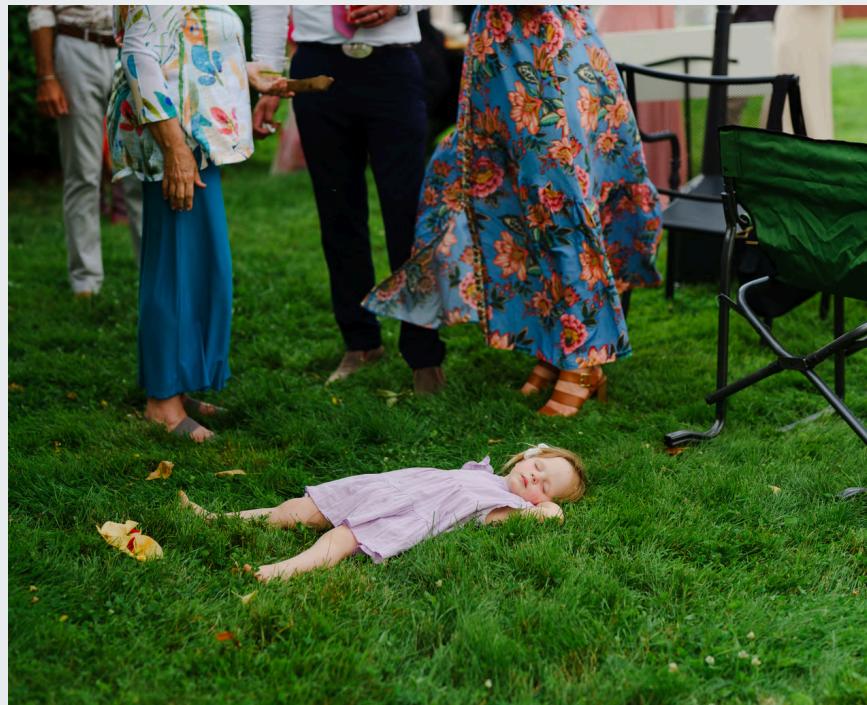

3. ephemeral details that make up the emotional energy of the day:
In essence: the vibes

glasses raised in a toast sunlight filtering through the window at exactly the right angle

a quick nap during a hot & sticky July wedding day

the bride's sisters during the newlyweds' grand entrance

4. art

arguably the hardest to articulate. I seek out the beauty you've created and render it into something lasting: the interplay of shape, color, texture, reflection and light that stir feeling and memory.

INSPIRED BY ROMANTIC MINIMALISM, MODERN ELEGANCE, AND INTENTIONAL PERSPECTIVES.

FINDING OUR FLOW

It's so important that we are a fit for each other. If you're a couple who:

- values photos that feel honest & joyful
- wants to feel fully present in your photos
- does not want your photos to feel performative
- is drawn to imagery that captures emotion, movement, and connection in an authentic, artful way
- is drawn to a photojournalistic approach for your wedding day photography
- is drawn to a modern, timeless aesthetic, with a love for true-to-life, vibrant colors and natural tones that preserve the day exactly as you remember it then we'll hit it right off!

My approach: artful documentary emphasizing connection and joy.
