

EMMA MIRANDA MOORE

Emma is a focussed, ambitious and emotionally intelligent director and writer with a clear visual style. She loves collaborating with actors new and experienced to build nuanced and believable performances that resonate with an audience.

All Emma's work is concerned with human connection. She creates a vibrant and textured cinematic world for her characters to inhabit - always striving to best serve the storytelling.

Emma went to Art School and before directing was a fashion photographer for The Face, Elle and many more. She brings her rigorous aesthetic, international set experience and ability to make her day from that career with her - but none of the judgey drama.
