

Projections of Possibility

Imagining the Light Between the Stars

INTRODUCTION

Projections of Possibility

This photographic collection proposes alternatives to a Cosmos immersed in infinite darkness.

As I enter my eighth decade, pondering what “exists” after death guides my artistic journey. Using the scientific properties of optics and an understanding of perception, I have created speculative luminosities to inspire the imagination to consider that the eternal void could actually be suffused with inexplicable light.

The prints in this collection, “Projections of Possibility”, are available for exhibition as an appropriately curated set, or for individual purchase.

EXHIBITION OVERVIEW

Projections of Possibility is a visual inquiry into the unseen nature of the Universe and its enigmatic connection to human perception. The photographs are the result of a transient encounter with projected and reflected light. With the camera, I have recorded the presence of “something” beyond the limits of expected cognition.

These photographs offer viewers the opportunity to consider the beauty and wonder of what might exist alongside, thou perhaps contrary to, reason. They are an invitation to ponder the integration of science and the imagination in order to navigate the mysteries of mortality, time, and existence itself.

I exhibit my images in one of two ways. The more saturated ones look best printed on metal up to a size of about 40" by 30". The remainder are printed on archival fine art paper and displayed within floater frames, typically at a framed size of 25" by 20".

PORTFOLIO

Projections of Possibility

On the following pages are examples of my most active body of work, “Projections of Possibility”. Making these images continues to fill me with optimism and a sense of wonder at what just might exist. To see more work visit my website at: www.JeannieHutchins.com.

Most images are available printed on either of two different substrates. The ones printed using the dye sublimation on to aluminum work well at the 30” x 40” size. Paper prints are typically printed on 17” x 22” Canson Photographique Rag and lift mounted inside floater frames.

See “Table of Image Details” on page 28 for information regarding available media and size.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES

Ever since the night she photographed deep into a midnight blue lake and found that she could see to the end of the universe, Jeannie Hutchins has been using the camera to make images that explore life's unanswerable questions. Her images often confront metaphysical concepts regarding our relationship with the Cosmos.

Jeannie lives back in Maine after decades living "away". Having had careers as a community health nurse and as an upholsterer, both in the USA and Canada, she now spends less time trying to fix other people and things, and more time wondering why we all exist in the first place. Regardless of the "right" answer, currently she chooses to embrace the marvelous wonder of all the possibilities that could lie ahead.

Jeannie received her MFA in May, 2024, from Maine Media College in Rockport, Maine.

ARTIST STATEMENT

Artist Statement For Projections of Possibility

My creative practice is a visual inquiry into the unseen nature of the Universe and its enigmatic connection to human perception and understanding. My photographs are the result of a transient encounter with projected and reflected light. The images present magical and profound ways in which light can induce perceptions eclipsing those that we expect to see.

I seek answers to life's unanswerable questions. I have queried art, science, religion, and common sense, but have failed to find suitable answers. For example, NASA's telescopes contribute data to our understanding of the Cosmos as they explore deeper and deeper into space and allow the rendering of awe-inspiring photographs. However, when looking at them, I find I want to know more and wonder what lies in those voids between the light of the stars. Where in that Universe am "I"?

It has been impossible to find rational answers to these questions; hence, I decided to make up my own. I have used the optical properties of light, along with my imagination, to photograph artifacts of a reality that is both science based and speculative. The images offer viewers the opportunity to consider the beauty and wonder of what might exist alongside, though perhaps contrary to, reason. They are an invitation to ponder the integration of scientific knowledge and the imagination in order to navigate the mysteries of mortality, time, and existence itself.
