Interior Photography Portfolio

I'm a student of light....

BIO

I'm an editorial, commercial, lodge and travel photographer, based wherever my camera takes me.

Born and raised in Nairobi Kenya my love for the arts started at a young age through illustrations learning from my uncle. Lifetimes later I became a graphic designer while working for a Kenyan top women's magazine True Love Magazine East Africa, My interest in fashion photography started here while working with my mentor/friend Emmanuel Jambo. It was during this time I started shooting with my phone and grew from there.

EXPERTISE

My work focuses on capturing fashion and travel in its element. I love natural light and shadows and how it forms interesting light against my subjects. Always experimenting with new techniques, I love challenging myself to always push the limits of creativity. I'm currently working on a series called The Dark Matter Project that is a collaboration with different African models, designers showcasing their unique fashion and documenting this through creative forms for editorial photography.

My journey on photography has evolved to include lodge and travel photography which started when I joined Nomad Magazine. My love for interior work has helped me to continually photograph spaces from an experience point of view and to appreciate the details and time taken to create a beautiful space. I love playing with sunlight to bring out the essence of a space, hence my work has a lot of shadow contrasts and light flares.

CURRENT CLIENTS & PROJECTS

I've been fortunate to kickstart on interesting projects in 2021 which includes:

- Created new imagery for The Safari Collection properties and also their new property Giraffe Retreat. Also photographed imagery for their cookbook to be released later this year.
- Photographed the updated projects for Segera
- Teaching photography with Lensational Organisations that empowers Masai women through photography
- Currently working on a photography book.
